

TYPE OF GOV.	TYPE OF LEADERSHIP	ADDITIONAL NOTES
Democracy	Government ruled by a leader decided by its citizens	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> •Government lacks some power, power resides in its citizens •Citizens have most direct access to government •Power is attained by elections •The governed determine who their leaders are •Has the most rights of any government
Dictatorship	Government ruled by a leader decided by force	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> •Dictators will use military force to attain power •Rules with absolute force •The dictator has total control over those being governed •Citizens have no rights
Theocracy	Government ruled by a leader decided by _____	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> •Relies on citizen's religious beliefs to keep in power •Rights may be limited, especially freedom of religion •Relies on the religion of its governed to keep power •The governing say they were divinely chosen (they were chosen by God)
Monarchy	Government ruled by a leader decided by _____	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> •Relies on the loyalties to the royal family & king/queen •The governing monarch inherits power •The amount of liberties citizens have depends on how much power the king or queen has

Citizens: someone who lives within a country

Attain: to get or achieve something

Rights: things citizens are allowed to do

Governing: the person/people in power

Governed: citizens within country who hold no place in the government

demo- people and society

dictate to give an order

theo- "god"

mono- one